These are among the tools essential in modern day ranching to do the required maintenance and herding that is needed to accomplish multiple-use benefits while keeping the ranches economically competitive. These tools enable ranchers to respond in a timely manner to the needs of both livestock and the rangeland resource.

- In order to keep our industry in the lead of the efforts to protect and enhance the land we urge Wyoming ranchers to adopt the following principles and practices. To reduce the visibility from roads and reduce the possibility of creating a road or trail, we encourage varying the track or route when accessing a site on numerous occasions. In addition, we support practices such as:

- a. Utilizing existing roads and trails when available.
 - b. Limiting travel on soft or wet ground.
 - c. Utilizing brush or shrubs to obscure tracks.
 - d. Avoiding, when practical, travel on highly erosive soils and sites such as steep hillsides.
 - e. Controlling speeds or altering routes to minimize disturbance of big game animals.
- We must emphasize the fact that no one effort or practice will fit all situations. We know there will, and should be, exceptions to any of these practices. It must be recognized that ranchers need to go off road in all kinds of conditions to check and treat sick livestock, tend to cows and sheep that are calving and lambing or to locate dead cattle and sheep to confirm predator losses. (renewed 06/18)
34. Urge that, in the BLM federal planning process, all existing Area of Critical Environmental Concern (ACEC) and National Natural Landmarks (NNL) be reevaluated for compliance with established criteria and court decisions, and that any proposed new ACEC's and NNL's should be evaluated for compliance with existing criteria, legal precedent, and local land use laws. (renewed 06/18)
 35. Support efforts to control the number of wild and feral horses on private, state and BLM lands both in and out of established Herd Management Areas (HMA's) at such level that the BLM can manage the annual increase in population in a manner consistent with Wild Horse Management Section 2 of the Wild Horse and Burro Act which states, "When the Secretary determines on the basis of information available to him] that an overpopulation exists on a given area of the public lands and that action is necessary to remove excess animals, he shall immediately remove excess animals from the range so as to achieve appropriate management levels. Such action shall be taken, [in a specified priority], until all excess animals have been removed to as to restore a thriving natural ecological balance to the range and protect the range from the deterioration associated with overpopulation." (renewed 06/19)
 36. Support establishment of long term holding pastures on leased lands in the mid-west and east to reduce horse numbers on BLM administered land to no more than current allotment management levels and further support that BLM employ all effective population control and management methods to assure that these levels are not exceeded in the future and further support reducing the breeding herd to the level that the annual reproduction can be managed through the adoption and/or ale programs.
