HISTORY

“The story of the Association - which is the story of Wyoming - begins with the coming of the people and the cattle to the land, with the first of the riders in the long, slow cavalcade.”
- CowCountry Cavalcade - 80 years of the Wyoming Stock Growers Association

Wyoming Stock Growers Association was organized on April 4, 1872 in Cheyenne to advance and protect the interest of the state’s livestock producers. The WSGA historically organized roundups, scheduled cattle shipments, and tracked cattle brands, but was also active, especially before 1900, in eliminating cattle rustling. It was the second state cattlemen’s organization created in the United States.

Many of the early members traveled from Europe and other countries, but the majority were Wyoming men who took an active personal interest in the cattle business. The formation of a cattlemen’s association was no doubt monumental at its inception.

As one unknown author put it, “Of even greater significance, the principles for which it stood, and the manner in which it was implementing them, were attracting industry-wide attention.”

Wyoming Stock Growers was the first association formed in the Wyoming territory. It is the only organization in the state focused entirely on serving the needs of the ranching industry, which is the largest segment of Wyoming’s agricultural production.

TODAY

The association lobbies and tracks issues at both the state and national levels; we work closely with the state and federal agencies that write regulations affecting the industry. We also participate in litigation on critical issues and work to enhance the public image of the cattle industry.

As the industry continues to face many age-old issues and new opportunities, we seek to bring a fresh approach to addressing them. The three main roles of today’s association are:

• Advocating on issues affecting the cattle industry, Wyoming agriculture and rural community living
• Providing members with timely information regarding events in the cattle industry and the activities of the association
• Promoting the role of the Wyoming cattle industry in resource stewardship, animal care and the production of high-quality safe and nutritious beef
The Cheyenne Club Lives On - By Sharon O’Toole

Whoopi ti yi yay
130 years if it’s a day,
Whoopi ti yi yo
To the Cheyenne Club we go!

In a ghostly haunted clubhouse rising there upon the plains where ghostly folks still gather — cowman spirits still remain.

You can hear the dice a’rollin,
You can hear the silver clink,
The phantom bartend pours ‘em,
splashing fine imported drink.

The Graziers, they called themselves,
Back in 1872,
Five stockmen in a stable
met to figure what to do.

The Wild West rose all around with hustlers and with thieves.
The stockmen called for order,
and no more stolen beeves!

The Durbin brothers met there,
Van Tassell and Coffee too,
No one knows the fifth man’s name—
he’s a ghost who left no clue.

There was a profit to be made for the grass grew thick and sweet, Something must be done, and now!
to stay the rustlers’ reach.

They had naught to stop the running iron
to claim a maverick calf,
naught to stop the Cattle Kates,
with calves—no cows—out back.

So stockmen organized themselves,
organized their neighbors too,
They planned big gathers, supervised with some lawmen on the crew.

They brought in the finest stock.
Brits laid claim to cows and land.
Local cowboys were no fools—
two sets of books now wore the brand.

And money they were making,
those spectral speculators of late.
The rain it fell, the grass it grew,
and the Cheyenne Club took shape.

Those glory days were not to last—
Mother Nature claimed her toll,
Blizzard winters hit the plains.
Dead cows topped every knoll.

Perhaps bovine ghosts still graze there beyond the Cheyenne Club haunts,
for those investors lost their shirts
but the ranchers carried on.

Wyoming’s daring men and women set their stakes and settled in.
The Stock Growers continued on with cows and calves and kin.

These brave and sturdy pioneers—
they vowed to make a hand—
mostly stopped those running irons,
and now rode for the brand.

We gathered a big circle,
brought in ghosts and friends and strays.
Let’s raise a glass to times gone by,
and toast our future days.

So hear those glasses clinking,
Try to see beyond the veil,
at the Sesquicentennial gala
our Stockgrowers still prevail!

Don Day Jr.
President and Chief Meteorologist of DayWeather, Inc.
For over 30 years, Don and his DayWeather meteorologists have provided customized broadcast weather services to over 70 radio stations across Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska with emphasis on the rural/ag listener. Day also specializes in weather forecasting and analysis for stratospheric aviation with emphasis on lighter than air vehicles (stratospheric balloons, airships, and very high-altitude experiments). Don was the chief meteorologist for Felix Baumgartner’s record and groundbreaking Red Bull Stratos Stratospheric sky dive and also was chief meteorologist for Google’s Alan Eustace stratospheric jump. Don was also the lead weather adviser for skydiver Luke Aikins’ “Heaven Sent – No Parachute Jump” as well as weather advisor/producer for Magician David Blaine’s Ascension. Don has been featured in the documentaries “Mission to the Edge of Space – Red Bull Stratos”, “14 Minutes to Earth” and the “Great Balloon Bomb Invasion for Discovery Channel.” DayWeather also provides long range and seasonal weather forecasts for agriculture and other private industries with an emphasis on long-term and known historic trends in ocean temperature and ocean circulation changes.

Delaney Howell, M.S.
Founder/Owner/CEO of AgCulture Media LLC
Delaney Howell grew up on a grain and livestock farm in Southeast Iowa and has been involved in agriculture from an incredibly young age. Wearing lots of different hats as an analyst, journalist, and farmer, Delaney strives to bring her unique perspective to audiences all over the globe. She holds a master’s degree in Agricultural Communications from Texas Tech University and has spent nearly a decade in the ag media realm. You may recognize Delaney from her role as former television host of the long running agribusiness show “Market to Market”, or from the daily podcast she launched in 2017, Ag News Daily, and in 2018 launched Global Ag Network, a “herd” of agriculturally focused podcasts, which provide entertaining, informative, and essential information to the agricultural industry. In 2020 Delaney was named as one of AgGrad’s “30 under 30 in Agriculture” for her strong passion for entrepreneurship - most notably due to founding three distinct agricultural marketing and digital media companies in the past five years. She also serves as the regional Vice President for the National Association of Farm Broadcasters.

Michael Kassel
Associate Director, Old West Museum
Kaitlynn Glover
Executive Director, Natural Resources
National Cattlemen’s Beef Association
Executive Director, Public Lands Council

Kaitlynn Glover serves as the Executive Director of the Public Lands Council and the National Cattlemen’s Beef Association Natural Resources. Before joining NCBA in 2020, she most recently spent five years as a policy advisor on agriculture, natural resources, and Tribal policy issues for a Senator John Barrasso (R-WY). Prior to moving to Washington, Glover spent several years working for Teagasc, the agriculture semi-state authority in Ireland. During that time, she received a Masters of Agriscience in Innovation Support from University College Dublin in Dublin, Ireland. Originally from Wyoming, Glover has a diverse background in agriculture policy and production, and strong ties to grazers, recreationalists, and many other users of public land resources.

Don Schiefelbein
2022 NCBA President

Don Schiefelbein, his father, seven brothers and three nephews own and operate Schiefelbein Farms, a large, diversified farming operation in Kimball, Minn. Before returning to the family farm, Schiefelbein served as the executive director of the American Gelbvieh Association. He previously worked for the North American Limousin Association after graduating from Texas A&M University. Schiefelbein has a long history of industry service, most recently in the role as chairman of the Beef Industry Long Range Planning Committee. He has also held several positions on committees and the board of directors of the American Angus Association. In addition, Schiefelbein is a past president of the Minnesota Cattlemen’s Association. Schiefelbein and his wife of 27 years, Jennifer, have three daughters, Shelby, Abbey, and Bailee, all of whom are active in the industry.

Annie & Amy Smith

Annie & Amy Smith are fifth-generation Wyoming Natives & professional singer/songwriters and the composers of the award-winning song; "Wyoming Where I Belong," Wyoming’s second State Song. Steeped in Wyoming heritage, their great-great-grandfather W.E. Dinneen established Dinneen Lincoln Mercry, and their grandfather W.J. Dinneen was instrumental in bringing water to Cheyenne from Pole Mountain.

Trolley Schedule

Trolleys will be provided on a first come, first serve basis during convention. Each trolley will hold 26 people. You must make your own travel arrangements if you miss the opportunity, or choose not to use, the trolleys.

Trolleys will pick up at the East Port Entry of Little America (see map on pg. 4).

Trolley Schedule:

June 9
3:30PM  Travel to the WSGA AG Resource Center for tour and then directly to the Archer Fairgrounds for rodeo.
9:00PM  Travel to Little America from Archer Fairgrounds in conclusion to the rodeo.

June 11
6:45AM  Please travel to downtown Cheyenne for parade on your own. You will park in the parking lot east of the State Capitol. (Between 24th & 25th Street, between Warren & Central Ave.)
7:00  Trolleys will make several trips from the parking lot to the WSGA Ag Resource Center for breakfast.
8:00  Trolleys will take parade participants from WSGA Resource Center to the Depot to get on their floats.
8:20  Final trolley will board for anyone that wishes to ride in the parade from the WSGA Ag Resource Center
8:30  Trolleys will join the parade to the State Capitol for Proclamation signing.

*Anyone wishing to watch the entire parade, please walk to Capitol Avenue and view between 22nd Street and 24th Street in front of the Wyoming Supreme Court Building. (~0.5 mi.)

A generous thank you to these members that continue to do more for our Association!
In 1872, the Wyoming Stock Growers Association started with five men in a livery stable in Cheyenne. Names: Tom and John Durbin, R.S. VanTassell, Charles Coffee and one unknown gentleman. They decided to organize a vigilance committee to cope with rustlers.
